This brochure provides information about the qualifications and business practices of Taylor Hoffman Capital Management, LLC (“THCM” or the “Firm”). If you have any questions about the contents of this brochure, please contact the Firm at the telephone number listed above. The information in this brochure has not been approved or verified by the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) or by any state securities authority. Additional information about the Firm is available on the SEC’s website at www.adviserinfo.sec.gov. The Firm is a registered investment adviser. Registration does not imply any level of skill or training.

Item 2. Material Changes

In this Item, THCM is required to discuss any material changes that have been made to the brochure since the last annual amendment, on March 28, 2024. THCM has the following changes to report:

- The entire brochure has been amended to reflect new services, compensation, business practices, and conflicts of interest that resulted from the merger of THCM’s business with that of its affiliate, Taylor Hoffman Wealth Management, LLC (“THWM”) on October 7, 2024. THCM has assumed responsibility for the services previously provided by THWM to its clients.

Item 4. Advisory Business

THCM offers a variety of advisory services, which include financial planning, consulting, and investment management services. Prior to THCM rendering any of the foregoing advisory services, clients are required to enter into one or more written agreements with THCM setting forth the relevant terms and conditions of the advisory relationship (the “Advisory Agreement”).

THCM filed for registration as an investment adviser in May 2020 and is owned by Taylor Hoffman, Inc. As of October 7, 2024, THCM had $388,683,828 in assets under management, $317,143,583 of which was managed on a discretionary basis and $71,540,245 of which was managed on a non-discretionary basis.

While this brochure generally describes the business of THCM, certain sections also discuss the activities of its Supervised Persons, which refer to the Firm’s officers, partners, directors (or other persons occupying a similar status or performing similar functions), employees, or any other persons who provide investment advice on THCM’s behalf and are subject to the Firm’s supervision or control.

Financial Planning and Consulting Services

THCM offers clients a broad range of financial planning and consulting services, which includes any or all of the following services:

- Business Planning
- Cash Flow Forecasting
- Trust and Estate Planning
- Financial Reporting
- Investment Consulting
- Insurance Planning
- Tax Return Preparation
- Retirement Planning
- Risk Management
- Charitable Giving
- Distribution Planning
- Tax Planning
- Manager Due Diligence

While financial planning and consulting services are available on a stand-alone basis, certain of them can also be rendered in conjunction with investment portfolio management as part of a comprehensive wealth Management engagement (described in more detail below).

In performing these services, THCM is not required to verify any information received from the client or from the client’s other professionals (e.g., attorneys, accountants) and is expressly authorized to rely on such information. THCM recommends certain clients engage the Firm for additional related services and/or other professionals to implement its recommendations. Clients are advised that a conflict of interest exists for the Firm to recommend that clients engage THCM or its affiliates to provide (or continue to provide) additional services for compensation, including investment management services. Clients retain absolute discretion over all decisions regarding implementation and are under no obligation to act upon any of the recommendations made by THCM under a financial planning or consulting engagement. Clients are advised that it remains their responsibility to promptly notify the Firm of any change in their financial situation or investment objectives for the purpose of reviewing, evaluating, or revising THCM's recommendations and/or services.

Wealth Management Services

THCM provides clients with wealth management services that include a broad range of comprehensive financial planning and consulting services as well as discretionary and/or non-discretionary management of investment portfolios.

THCM primarily allocates client assets among various mutual funds, exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), individual debt and equity securities, alternative instruments (including private funds), and independent investment managers ("Independent Managers") in accordance with their stated investment objectives.

Where appropriate, the Firm also provides advice about any type of legacy position or other investment held in client portfolios. Clients can engage THCM to manage and/or advise on certain investment products that are not maintained at their primary custodian, such as variable life insurance, annuity contracts, assets held in employer-sponsored retirement plans, and qualified tuition plans (i.e., 529 plans). In these situations, THCM directs or recommends the allocation of client assets among the various investment options available with the product. These assets are generally maintained at the underwriting insurance company, or the custodian designated by the product's provider.

THCM tailors its advisory services to meet the needs and objectives of its individual clients and seeks to ensure, on a continuous basis, that client portfolios are managed in a manner consistent with those needs and objectives. THCM consults with clients on an initial and ongoing basis to assess their specific risk tolerance, time horizon, liquidity constraints, and other factors relevant to the management of their portfolios. Clients are advised to promptly notify THCM if there are changes in their financial situation or if they wish to place any limitations on the management of their portfolios. Clients can impose reasonable restrictions or mandates on the management of their accounts if THCM determines, in its sole discretion, that the conditions would not materially impact the performance of a management strategy or prove overly burdensome to the Firm's management efforts.

Use of Independent Managers

As mentioned above, in limited circumstances, THCM selects certain Independent Managers to actively manage a portion of its clients' assets. The specific terms and conditions under which a client engages an Independent Manager may be set forth in a separate written agreement with the designated Independent Manager. In addition to this brochure, clients may also receive the written disclosure documents of the respective Independent Managers engaged to manage their assets.

THCM evaluates a variety of information about Independent Managers, which includes the Independent Managers' public disclosure documents, materials supplied by the Independent Managers themselves, and other third-party analyses the Firm believes are reputable. To the extent possible, the Firm seeks to assess the Independent Managers' investment strategies, past performance, and risk results in relation to its clients' individual portfolio allocations and risk exposure. THCM also takes into consideration each Independent Manager's management style, returns, reputation, financial strength, reporting, pricing, and research capabilities, among other factors.

THCM continues to provide services relative to the discretionary or non-discretionary selection of the Independent Managers. On an ongoing basis, the Firm monitors the performance of those accounts being managed by Independent Managers. THCM seeks to ensure that the Independent Managers' strategies and target allocations remain aligned with its clients' investment objectives and overall best interests.

Retirement-Plan Services

In limited circumstances, THCM provides consulting services to qualified employee benefit plans and their fiduciaries. Each engagement is individually negotiated and customized and may include services such as consulting on plan design, preparation of an investment policy statement, selection of plan menu options, and education services for plan participants.

In limited circumstances, THCM also provides portfolio management services to eligible retirement plans and exercises discretion in managing the assets of such plans.

Management of Collective Investment Vehicle

THCM also serves as the general partner to an affiliated private investment fund, Hadleigh Fund LP (the "Fund"). THCM will receive either a performance allocation based on the performance of the Fund or an asset-based management fee from investors (as described in more detail in Item 5).

Securities in the Fund are privately offered pursuant to Regulation D under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act"). The Fund currently relies on an exemption from registration as an investment company pursuant to the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Company Act"). To invest in the Fund, an investor must qualify as both a "qualified client," as defined in Rule 205-3(d) under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act"), and an "accredited investor," as defined in Rule 501(a) under the Securities Act. Investors must make their own independent decision as to whether to invest in the Fund. An investment in the Fund involves a significant degree of risk.

Information relating to the Fund, including information relating to investment objectives and strategies, investment terms, risk factors, and potential conflicts of interest, are set forth in the Private Placement Memorandum (“PPM”), Second Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement (“LPA”), and/or Subscription Agreement (together with the PPM and LPA, the “Offering Documents”), which each investor is required to receive and execute prior to being accepted as an investor in the Fund.

THCM may recommend that certain of its clients invest a portion of their assets in the Fund. While THCM waives any investment management fees with respect to any client assets invested in the Fund, THCM nonetheless has an incentive to recommend an investment in the Fund because THCM could potentially earn more in compensation as a result of managing the client’s assets through the Fund than it could by investing the client’s assets in other investments. Nonetheless, THCM has an obligation to ensure that an investment in the Fund is suitable for the client.

THCM may give advice or take action with respect to the Fund that differs from that for individual client accounts. To the extent that a particular investment is suitable for both the Fund and certain individual client accounts, such investments will be allocated between the Fund and the individual client accounts in a manner which THCM determines is fair and equitable under the circumstances to all of its clients.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

Wealth Management Fees

THCM offers wealth Management services for fees based upon the client’s assets under management. This management fee varies in accordance with the following fee schedule:

Assets	Annual Fees
Up to $25,000,000	1.00%
Over $25,000,000	Negotiable

Once client assets under management cross the thresholds above, all assets are billed at the corresponding rate, not just the incremental assets.

For asset-management services provided with respect to certain client holdings (e.g., held-away assets, accommodation accounts, alternative investments), or where management of a client’s assets involves more extensive work than with other clients, the Firm may negotiate a fee rate that differs from the range set forth above.

Annual fees are prorated and charged quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets being managed by THCM on the last day of the previous billing period. If assets are deposited into or withdrawn from an account after the inception of a billing period, the fee payable with respect to such assets is adjusted to reflect the interim change in portfolio value. For the initial period of an engagement, the fee is calculated on a pro-rata basis. In the event the Advisory Agreement is terminated, the fee for the final billing period is prorated through the effective date of the termination, and the outstanding or unearned portion of the fee is credited.

Additionally, THCM charges separate fees for financial planning and consulting services, including tax-preparation services, that are provided on a stand-alone basis. In general, the Firm charges an hourly rate, ranging from $250–$500 per hour, for financial planning and consulting services. For tax-preparation services, however, the fee ranges based on the complexity of the tax return(s). Any fees for stand-alone services will be individually negotiated with each client, clearly delineated in the client’s Advisory Agreement, and charged by invoice.

For retirement-plan consulting services, the Firm charges a fee based on assets under advisement. These fees vary, based on the scope of the services to be rendered, and range from 30–100 basis points per annum. In those situations where THCM has agreed to manage a plan’s assets, the Firm charges an annual asset-based fee based on its schedule for investment management fees, as described above. Each engagement is individually negotiated and tailored to accommodate the needs of the individual plan sponsor, as memorialized in the Agreement with each sponsor.

Certain legacy clients have fee arrangements that are different from those described above.

Fee Discretion

THCM may, in its sole discretion, negotiate to charge lower or higher fees based upon certain criteria, such as anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, pre-existing/legacy client relationship, account retention, and pro bono activities.

Additional Fees and Expenses

In addition to the advisory fees paid to THCM, clients also incur certain charges imposed by third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, trust companies, banks, and other financial institutions (collectively “Financial Institutions”). These additional charges include securities brokerage commissions; transaction fees; custodial fees; margin costs; fees related to private fund investments; fees charged by Independent Managers (including any platform fees, manager fees, etc.); charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or ETF in a client’s account, as disclosed in the fund’s prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses); deferred sales charges; odd-lot differentials; transfer taxes; wire transfer and electronic fund fees; and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. The Firm’s brokerage practices are described at length in Item 12.

Direct Fee Debit

Clients provide THCM and/or certain Independent Managers with the authority to directly debit their accounts for payment of investment advisory fees. The Financial Institutions that act as the qualified custodians for client accounts, from which the Firm retains the authority to directly deduct fees, have agreed to send statements to clients not less than quarterly detailing all account transactions, including any amounts paid to THCM.

Account Additions and Withdrawals

Clients can make additions to and withdrawals from their accounts at any time, subject to THCM's right to terminate accounts. Additions can be in cash or securities, subject to the Firm's right to liquidate any transferred securities or decline to accept particular securities into a client's account. Clients can withdraw account assets on notice to THCM, subject to the usual and customary securities settlement procedures. However, the Firm designs its portfolios as long-term investments, and the withdrawal of assets may impair the achievement of a client's investment objectives. THCM may consult with its clients about the options and implications of transferring securities. Clients are advised that when transferred securities are liquidated, they may be subject to transaction fees, short-term redemption fees, fees assessed at the mutual fund level (e.g., contingent deferred sales charges), and/or tax ramifications.

Fees and Expenses Associated with an Investment in the Hadleigh Fund

Depending on the class of interest owned by each investor, as the sponsor of the Fund, THCM is entitled to either a one percent (1.0%) asset-based management fee per annum or a performance allocation ("Performance Allocation") equal to 20% of the excess of (i) the aggregate net profits otherwise allocable to each capital account during the relevant calendar year, subject to a hurdle rate, expressed as a rate of return on the Fund's net assets equal to 6.00%, minus (ii) any balance remaining in each capital account's loss recovery account as of the last day of the prior calendar year or as of the commencement of the Fund's operations during the Fund's first calendar year, as applicable (or a "high water mark"). If a limited partner subject to the Performance Allocation withdraws any assets from the Fund at any time other than at the end of a calendar year, the Performance Allocation will be calculated as of the withdrawal date, taking into consideration a prorated hurdle rate for such calendar year. For the avoidance of doubt, the hurdle rate will not be cumulative, meaning that it will not be applied for any calendar year in which there is a positive balance in a loss recovery account as of the end of a calendar year or any other time that the Performance Allocation is to be calculated. In any year in which the hurdle rate applies, it will be assessed based on the high-water mark of the Fund.

Investors in the Fund will bear their pro-rata share of the operating- and investment-related expenses of the Fund, as described in more detail in the Fund Offering Documents.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

THCM charges certain investors in the Fund a Performance Allocation based on the capital appreciation on their investment. As such, a conflict of interest exists, as there is an incentive for THCM to make or recommend investments that are riskier or more speculative than would be the case absent such an arrangement. In addition, where THCM provides similar investment management services to accounts not bearing any such Performance Allocation, there is an incentive for THCM to favor the Fund that makes the Performance Allocation, including, without limitation, in the allocation of resources, services, functions, or investment opportunities. THCM has procedures in place to ensure that any decisions made are in the best interest of clients regardless of the applicable fee structure.

Item 7. Types of Clients

THCM offers advisory services to individuals, trusts, estates, retirement plans, and the Fund. THCM does not impose a minimum portfolio size or minimum fee for establishing an advisory relationship with the Firm.

However, Participation in the Fund typically requires a minimum investment of 100,000, although such minimum may be waived or reduced by THCM in its sole discretion.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Investment Philosophy: THCM is a passionate, enthusiastic participant in the efficient and intelligent allocation of capital for clients. The Firm endeavors to diversify clients' capital across multiple asset classes including, but not limited to, U.S. stocks in all size categories, international stocks, emerging market stocks, and all classifications of both U.S. and international bonds. There is no attempt to use technical analysis or economic forecasting, as all investment decisions are based exclusively on strategic asset allocation and fundamental, bottom-up analysis of individual businesses.

The following methods are used in client portfolios:

Index Funds: THCM believes index funds are a low-cost, tax-efficient means to earn the aggregate returns of all businesses that the Firm anticipates will deliver satisfactory results over long periods of time. The primary disadvantage is the fact that indexes may lead to less price discovery over time, and all corporate governance decisions are outsourced to third parties who may or may not vote proxy statements in a way that reflects the values of the Firm. THCM indexes a portion of client funds in areas of the market that it believes are most efficient, where it believes it has few proprietary research advantages, and where its investment through individual securities would be small enough to have no expected benefit of influencing corporate governance.

Mutual Funds and Separately Managed Accounts: THCM allocates funds to money managers that actively manage client funds. The Firm invests client funds with outside money managers via mutual funds or separately managed accounts in areas where the Firm does not have a research advantage or when it would like to pair them with index funds. The selection process includes firms that THCM believes are lower cost and tax efficient, have a sound investment philosophy with a proven track record of investment excellence, and are most likely to vote proxy statements in a way that reflects the values of the Firm.

Individual Stocks: THCM uses proprietary original research to uncover opportunities within publicly traded securities to invest in client accounts. The Firm's primary methods of analyzing companies is through public information such as annual reports, proxy statements, and articles in leading financial magazines and newspapers. The Firm is a bottom-up, fundamental investor looking for businesses it can reasonably understand, with strong returns on invested capital, run by management teams with demonstrated competence and integrity, and available at an attractive price.

Risk of Loss

Market Risks: Investing involves risk, including the potential loss of principal, and all investors should be guided accordingly. The profitability of a significant portion of THCM's recommendations and/or investment decisions may depend to a great extent upon correctly assessing the future course of price movements of stocks, bonds, and other asset classes. There can be no assurance that THCM will be able to predict those price movements accurately or capitalize on any such assumptions.

Mutual Funds and ETFs: An investment in a mutual fund or ETF involves risk, including the loss of principal. Mutual fund and ETF shareholders are necessarily subject to the risks stemming from the individual issuers of the fund's underlying portfolio securities. Such shareholders are also liable for taxes on any fund-level capital gains, as mutual funds and ETFs are required by law to distribute capital gains in the event they sell securities for a profit that cannot be offset by a corresponding loss.

Shares of mutual funds are generally distributed and redeemed on an ongoing basis by the fund itself or a broker acting on its behalf. The trading price at which a share is transacted is equal to a fund's stated daily per share net asset value ("NAV"), plus any shareholders fees (e.g., sales loads, purchase fees, redemption fees). The per share NAV of a mutual fund is calculated at the end of each business day, although the actual NAV fluctuates with intraday changes to the market value of the fund's holdings. The trading prices of a mutual fund's shares may differ significantly from the NAV during periods of market volatility, which may, among other factors, lead to the mutual fund's shares trading at a premium or discount to actual NAV.

Shares of ETFs are listed on securities exchanges and transacted at negotiated prices in the secondary market. Generally, ETF shares trade at or near their most recent NAV, which is generally calculated at least once daily for index-based ETFs and potentially more frequently for actively managed ETFs. However, certain inefficiencies may cause the shares to trade at a premium or discount to their pro-rata NAV. There is also no guarantee that an active secondary market for such shares will develop or continue to exist. Generally, an ETF only redeems shares when aggregated as creation units (usually 20,000 shares or more). Therefore, if a liquid secondary market ceases to exist for shares of a particular ETF, a shareholder may have no way to dispose of such shares.

As stated above, THCM selects certain Independent Managers to manage a portion of its clients' assets. In these situations, THCM continues to conduct ongoing due diligence of such managers, but such recommendations rely to a great extent on the Independent Managers' ability to successfully implement their investment strategies. In addition, THCM does not have the ability to supervise the Independent Managers on a day-to-day basis.

Risks Associated with Private Funds: The Firm recommends that certain eligible clients invest in private investment vehicles (e.g., hedge funds). The managers of these vehicles have broad discretion in selecting the investments. There are often few limitations on the types of securities or other financial instruments which may be traded and no requirement to diversify. Hedge funds may trade on margin or otherwise leverage positions, thereby potentially increasing the risk to the vehicle. In addition, because such investment vehicles are not registered as investment companies and their securities are not registered under federal securities laws, such funds (and their sponsors) may be subject to less regulation than other types of funds. There are numerous other risks in investing in the securities of such private investment vehicles. Clients should consult each fund's private placement memorandum and/or other documents explaining such risks prior to investing.

Cyber Risk: As with any entity that conducts business through electronic means in the modern marketplace, THCM and its service providers may be susceptible to operational and information security risks resulting from cyberattacks. Cyberattacks include, among other behaviors, stealing or corrupting data maintained online or digitally; denial-of-service attacks on websites; unauthorized monitoring, release, misuse, loss, destruction, or corruption of confidential information; unauthorized access to relevant systems; compromises to networks or devices that THCM and its service providers use to service their operations; operational disruption or failures in the physical infrastructure or operating systems that support THCM and its service providers; and various other forms of cybersecurity breaches. Cyberattacks affecting THCM or any of its intermediaries or service providers may adversely impact THCM's clients, potentially resulting in, among other things, financial losses or the inability to transact business.

For instance, cyberattacks may impact the release of private client information or confidential business information, impede trading, subject THCM to regulatory fines or financial losses, and/or cause reputational damage. THCM may also incur additional costs for cybersecurity risk management purposes designed to mitigate or prevent the risk of cyberattacks. Such costs may be ongoing because threats of cyberattacks are constantly evolving, as cyber attackers become more sophisticated and their techniques become more complex. Similar types of cybersecurity risks are also present for issuers of securities in which clients are invested, which could result in material, adverse consequences for such issuers and cause investments in such companies to lose value. There can be no assurance that THCM, its service providers, or the issuers of the securities in which clients invest will not suffer losses relating to cyberattacks or other information security breaches in the future.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

THCM has not been involved in any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's evaluation of its advisory business or the integrity of its management.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

THCM does not have anything to report in response to this item.

Item 11. Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

THCM has adopted a code of ethics in compliance with applicable securities laws ("Code of Ethics") that sets forth the standards of conduct expected of its Supervised Persons. THCM's Code of Ethics contains written policies reasonably designed to prevent certain unlawful practices, such as the use of material non-public information by the Firm or any of its Supervised Persons and the trading by the same of securities ahead of clients in order to take advantage of pending orders.

The Code of Ethics also requires certain of THCM's personnel to report their personal securities holdings and transactions and obtain pre-approval of certain investments (e.g., initial public offerings, limited offerings). However, the Firm's Supervised Persons are permitted to buy or sell securities that it also recommends to clients if done in a fair and equitable manner that is consistent with the Firm's policies and procedures. This Code of Ethics has been established recognizing that some securities trade in sufficiently broad markets to permit transactions by certain personnel to be completed without any appreciable impact on the markets of such securities. Therefore, under limited circumstances, exceptions may be made to the policies stated below.

When the Firm is engaging in or considering a transaction in any security on behalf of a client, no Supervised Person with access to this information may knowingly effect for themselves or for their immediate family (i.e., spouse, minor children, and adults living in the same household) a transaction in that security unless:

- the transaction for the client has been completed;
- the transaction for the Supervised Person is completed as part of a batch trade with clients; or

- a decision has been made not to engage in the transaction for the client.

These requirements are not applicable to: (i) direct obligations of the Government of the United States; (ii) money market instruments, bankers' acceptances, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper, repurchase agreements, and other high-quality short-term debt instruments; (iii) shares issued by open-end mutual funds or money market funds; and (iv) shares issued by unit investment trusts that are invested exclusively in one or more open-end mutual funds.

Clients and prospective clients may contact THCM to request a copy of its Code of Ethics.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Recommendation of Broker-Dealers for Client Transactions

THCM requires that clients utilize the custody, brokerage, and clearing services of Charles Schwab & Co, Inc., through its Schwab Advisor Services division ("Schwab") for investment management accounts. THCM is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Schwab. Schwab provides THCM with access to its institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to retail investors.

Factors which THCM considers in recommending Schwab or any other broker-dealer to clients include their respective financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, research, and service. Schwab enables the Firm to obtain many mutual funds without transaction charges and other securities at nominal transaction charges. The commissions and/or transaction fees charged by Schwab may be higher or lower than those charged by other Financial Institutions.

The commissions paid by THCM's clients to Schwab comply with the Firm's duty to obtain "best execution." Clients may pay commissions that are higher than another qualified Financial Institution might charge to effect the same transaction where THCM determines that the commissions are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a Financial Institution's services, including among others, the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. THCM seeks competitive rates but may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client transactions.

Consistent with obtaining best execution, brokerage transactions are directed to certain broker-dealers in return for investment research products and/or services that assist THCM in its investment decision-making process. Such research will be used to service all of the Firm's clients, but brokerage commissions paid by one client may be used to pay for research that is not used in managing that client's portfolio. The receipt of investment research products and/or services, as well as the allocation of the benefit of such investment research products and/or services, poses a conflict of interest because THCM does not have to produce or pay for the products or services.

THCM periodically and systematically reviews its policies and procedures regarding its recommendation of Financial Institutions in light of its duty to obtain best execution.

Software and Support Provided by Financial Institutions

THCM receives without cost from Schwab administrative support, computer software, and related systems support, as well as other third-party support as further described below (together “Support”), which allow THCM to better monitor client accounts maintained at Schwab and otherwise conduct its business. THCM receives the Support without cost because the Firm renders investment management services to clients that maintain assets at Schwab. The Support is not provided in connection with securities. Clients should be aware that THCM’s receipt of economic benefits such as the Support from a broker-dealer creates a conflict of interest since these benefits may influence the Firm’s choice of broker-dealer over another that does not furnish similar software, systems support, or services. In fulfilling its duties to its clients, THCM endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first and has determined that the recommendation of Schwab is in the best interest of clients and satisfies the Firm’s duty to seek best execution.

Specifically, THCM receives the following benefits from Schwab: (i) receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements; (ii) access to a trading desk that exclusively services its institutional traders; (iii) access to block trading, which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts; and (iv) access to an electronic communication network for client order entry and account information.

These services generally are available to independent investment advisers on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as a total of at least $10 million of the adviser’s clients’ assets are maintained in accounts at Schwab Advisor Services. Nonetheless, this arrangement creates a conflict of interest, as it provides an incentive for the Firm to recommend Schwab’s services to its clients in order to continue receiving such services. Schwab’s services include brokerage services that are related to the execution of securities transactions, custody, research (including that in the form of advice, analyses, and reports), and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

For client accounts maintained in its custody, Schwab generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions or other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Schwab or that settle into Schwab accounts.

Schwab also makes available to the Firm other products and services that benefit the Firm but may not benefit its clients’ accounts. These benefits may include national, regional, or Firm-specific educational events organized and/or sponsored by Schwab. Other potential benefits may include occasional business entertainment of THCM personnel by Schwab personnel, including meals, invitations to sporting events (including golf tournaments), and other forms of entertainment, some of which may accompany educational opportunities. Other of these products and services assist THCM in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology (and related technological training) that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts); provide research, pricing information, and other market data; facilitate payment of the Firm's fees from its clients' accounts; and assist with back-office training and support functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or some substantial number of the Firm's accounts, including accounts not maintained at Schwab. Schwab also makes available to THCM other services intended to help the Firm manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include professional compliance, legal and business consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance, employee benefits providers, human capital consultants, insurance, and marketing. In addition, Schwab may make available, arrange and/or pay vendors for these types of services rendered to the Firm by independent third parties. Schwab may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to the Firm. Although, as a fiduciary, THCM endeavors to act in its clients' best interests, the Firm's recommendation that clients maintain their assets in accounts at Schwab may be based in part on the benefits received and not solely on the nature, cost, or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Schwab, which creates a potential conflict of interest.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

THCM does not consider, in selecting or recommending broker-dealers, whether the Firm receives client referrals from the Financial Institutions or other third parties.

Directed Brokerage

The client may direct THCM in writing to use a particular Financial Institution to execute some or all transactions for the client. In that case, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with that Financial Institution, and the Firm will not seek better execution services or prices from other Financial Institutions or be able to "batch" client transactions for execution through other Financial Institutions with orders for other accounts managed by THCM (as described above). As a result, the client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or may receive less favorable net prices on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case. Subject to its duty of best execution, THCM may decline a client's request to direct brokerage if, in the Firm's sole discretion, such directed brokerage arrangements would result in additional operational difficulties.

Trade Aggregation

Transactions for each client will be effected independently, unless THCM decides to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. THCM may (but is not obligated to) combine or “batch” such orders to obtain best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates or to allocate equitably among the Firm’s clients differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might not have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. To the extent that the Firm determines to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which THCM’s Supervised Persons may invest, the Firm does so in accordance with applicable rules promulgated under the Advisers Act and no-action guidance provided by the staff of the SEC as well as its own internal policies and procedures. THCM does not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of the aggregation.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Account Reviews

THCM monitors client portfolios on an ongoing basis and conducts regular account reviews on at least a yearly basis. Such reviews are conducted by the Firm’s relationship managers. All investment advisory clients are encouraged to discuss their needs, goals, and objectives with THCM and to keep the Firm informed of any changes thereto. The Firm contacts ongoing investment advisory clients at least annually to review its previous services and/or recommendations.

Account Statements and Reports

Clients are provided with transaction confirmation notices and regular summary account statements directly from the Financial Institutions where their assets are custodied. From time to time or as otherwise requested, clients may also receive written or electronic reports from THCM and/or an outside service provider that contain certain account and/or market-related information, such as an inventory of account holdings or account performance. Clients should compare the account statements they receive from their custodian with any documents or reports they receive from THCM or an outside service provider.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Where appropriate, THCM will pay an unaffiliated third party compensation received in exchange for introducing potential advisory clients to THCM. The payment of compensation will not affect the amount being charged to the client.

Item 15. Custody

In certain circumstances, THCM is deemed to have custody of client funds and securities, including:

- where the Firm is authorized to deduct its advisory fees directly from client accounts;
- where the Firm has standing letters of authorization to disburse funds from client accounts;
- where the Firm serves as trustee or executor of client trusts or estates;
- where the Firm pays tax bills on behalf of clients; and
- because THCM serves as general partner of the Fund.

As such, THCM is required to comply with the requirements set forth in the Custody Rule under the Advisers Act, which requires, among other things, that client funds and securities be maintained with a qualified custodian. The custodians or broker-dealers that serve as qualified custodians on behalf of the Firm's clients have agreed to send statements to the clients, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from their accounts, including the amount of investment management fees paid directly to the Firm. In addition, as discussed in Item 13, the Firm may also send periodic supplemental reports to clients. Clients should carefully review the statements sent directly by the custodians or broker-dealers and compare them to the reports received from the Firm.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

THCM is given the authority to exercise discretion on behalf of clients. THCM is considered to exercise investment discretion over a client's account if it can effect and/or direct transactions in client accounts without first seeking their consent. THCM is given this authority through a power of attorney included in the agreement between THCM and the client. Clients may request limitations on this authority (e.g., no buying or selling of certain securities). THCM takes discretion over the following activities:

- the securities to be purchased or sold;
- the amount of securities to be purchased or sold;
- when to execute transactions; and
- the hiring and firing of Independent Managers.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

Acceptance of Proxy Voting Authority

THCM accepts the authority to vote a client's securities (i.e., proxies) on their behalf. When THCM accepts such responsibility, it will only cast proxy votes in a manner consistent with the best interest of its clients. Absent special circumstances, which are fully described in the Firm's Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures, all proxies will be voted consistent with guidelines established and described in THCM's Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures, as they may be amended from time to time. Clients may contact THCM to request information about how the Firm voted proxies for that client's securities or to obtain a copy of THCM's Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures. A brief summary of THCM's Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures follows:

- THCM will vote proxies according to THCM's then-current Proxy Voting Guidelines.
- Although the Proxy Voting Guidelines are followed as a general policy, certain issues are considered on a case-by-case basis based on the relevant facts and circumstances.
- Clients cannot direct THCM's vote on a particular solicitation but can revoke the Firm's authority to vote proxies.

In situations where there is a conflict of interest in the voting of proxies due to business or personal relationships that THCM maintains with persons having an interest in the outcome of certain votes, the Firm takes appropriate steps to ensure that its proxy voting decisions are made in the best interest of its clients and are not the product of such conflict.

Item 18. Financial Information

THCM is not required to disclose any financial information due to the following:

- The Firm does not require or solicit the prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees six months or more in advance of services rendered;
- The Firm does not have a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients; and
- The Firm has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time during the past ten years.
